SECTION 1: INTRODUCTION

General:

The City of Sandy Springs, Georgia ("City") is seeking Proposals from professionals to conduct a Community Wide Culture and Arts Assessment and Plan ("Plan"). City officials consider the Plan vital to the City's ability to build a short- and long-range culture and arts strategy for the City. The primary focus of the Plan for the City is to build upon and leverage the strengths, assets, advantages and accomplishments already established in this culturally diverse City, and to fully integrate arts and culture planning into the current and future economic and community development of the City.

The City was incorporated in 2005, the first new city in the State of Georgia in almost fifty (50) years. The City has approximately 108,797 residents (based on 2018 estimates: U.S. Census) with a daytime population of over 200,000 due to the heavy concentration of corporate headquarters and businesses which are located here. Sandy Springs is home to multiple Fortune 500 corporations and was the 2017 winner of Yelp's Most Customer-Friendly Town in America award. Sandy Springs is a very diverse community and was recently named the Second Most Diverse Midsize City in America by WalletHub (2019). According to the U.S. Census, approximately 20% of the City's population identifies as Black or African American, 14% as Hispanic or Latino, 7% Asian, and 56% as White.

Sandy Springs is geographically located in Fulton County, in the metropolitan Atlanta area of Georgia. The City is approximately thirty-eight (38) square miles. The City currently controls several hundred acres of parkland. While most of this acreage is owned outright by the City, many outdoor school parks are under an intergovernmental agreement with Fulton County Schools, renewable on a periodic basis. The City limits include approximately twenty-two (22) miles of shoreline along the Chattahoochee River and three (3) units of the National Park Service.

Recognizing that public art improves the character of a community and enhances the quality of life for those who live, work and visit, City leaders have taken proactive steps to develop arts programs within the City. In 2014, the City opened the Abernathy Greenway Linear Park and Playable Art Park. The 6.6-acre linear park features six (6) life-sized sculptures that children are encouraged to touch, climb up, jump on, slide down, and swing from in interactive play. Abernathy Greenway Park was created in partnership with the Sandy Springs Conservancy and Art Sandy Springs, Inc. (ArtSS). In 2012, the City Council adopted the City Center Master Plan, its vision for the City's downtown area including: a walkable grid of streets; a mix of retail, dining and housing; the addition of a network of green spaces; and a civic facility to house a multi-purpose city hall and performing arts venue. Phase One was completed in 2018, with the opening of City Springs, featuring a performing arts center including a 1,000 seat performance hall, flexible use studio theatre, conference center, programmable City Green, as well as civic offices, retail and housing units. In 2019, the City developed a master art plan for the interior spaces at City Springs. In partnership with ArtSS, the City also launched Arts in the Open, an outdoor sculpture exhibit at the City Green. Pieces are selected annually through an open competition, with finalists on display at City Springs. The City has guaranteed a purchase of at least one (1) piece per year for permanent placement within the City. In 2017, the City adopted its Next Ten Comprehensive Land Use Plan. Among the ten (10) key actions: enhance and beautify the City's public places, including its streets and open/green spaces, through the generous use of canopy trees, landscaping, flower displays, public art and attractive signage, to provide vibrancy to these places and as a demonstration of City pride and a "sense of place." In 2019, City Council adopted its Recreation and Parks Comprehensive Plan, which includes among its top short-term action items, conducting a community-wide art plan and begin integration of art within the City's parks.
